Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1 through 21, drawn to an inhibitor for inhibiting macrophage activation, a therapeutic agent for an infectious disease, a therapeutic agent for a type IV allergic disease and a therapeutic agent for improving severity of an atopic disease associated with pathogenic infection, comprising a compound of formula (1), wherein  $R^2$  represents a group of formula A, B, E, F or G, or its pharmacologically acceptable salt as an active ingredient, classified in class 549/subclass various and class 514/subclass 475.
  - II. Claims 1, 4-12, 13, 16 and 19, drawn to an inhibitor for inhibiting macrophage activation, a therapeutic agent for an infectious disease, a therapeutic agent for a type IV allergic disease and a therapeutic agent for improving severity of an atopic disease associated with pathogenic infection, comprising a compound of formula (1), wherein  $R^2$  represents a group of formula C or D, or its pharmacologically acceptable salt as an active ingredient, classified in class 564/subclass various and class 514/subclass 615.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are directed to products of related use. The related inventions are distinct if: (1) the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function, or effect; (2) the inventions do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; and (3) the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants. See MPEP § 806.05(j). In the instant case, the inventions are different chemical species (i.e. having different carbo- and heterocyclic structures and classifications) and therefore have materially different designs.

3. It should be noted that the claims in their present form are susceptible to rejection under the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C 112 as claim 1 does not stipulate a starting material or a process of generating the hydrogen sulfate salt.

4. Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious search and examination burden if restriction were not required because one or more of the following reasons apply:

(a) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification;

(b) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter;

(c) the inventions require a different field of search (for example, searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries);

(d) the prior art applicable to one invention would not likely be applicable to another invention;

(e) the inventions are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable upon the elected invention.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
